HAD LOVE AFFAIR WITH GRAND PIANO

Jan Cherniavsky is said to be the handsomest pianist of the day. He has been described as a young Apollo, and has been credited with more love affairs than any half dozen great artists; but, as he himself says, his "grand passion" was experienced at an early age and the object of that great love had three legs—it was a grand piano.

Jan Cherniavsky was born June 25, 1893, in the same Odessa House (which place has since been bought by the Grand Duke Nicolai as a memento) where his brothers Leo and Mischel first saw the light.

Jan's musical faculty became clearly evident at a very early age, for, as a small child he was always trying to drum out little snatches of the ineffable melodic upon whatever primitive objects came his way. It is said of him that he first indicated some aptitude for beating out tunes with a couple of sticks upon a certain old chair in a remote and shadowy corner of the family homestead. Be this as it may, it was at this period that he attracted the notice of a well-known Russian musician, who advised his father to have him taught the piano, and so, for the benefit of Jan, a real piano was imported into the house, and the boy began his musical education with zeal.

In conjunction with his brothers he renders complex accompaniments and trios beyond all criticism, and his solo playing and improvisations may be ranked with his splendid interpretations of his favorite composers, Chopin and Liszt.

This trio will give their first concert at the Opera House, September 20.

WILLIAM ELLIOTT IN A FAMOUS PLAY

It would almost appear as though photo-play actors, with very few exceptions, never repeat in Honolulu, so many are the stars announced from week to week by the leading theaters. At the Liberty theater for the first half of the present week William Elliott—at present starring in a big success, "Experience"—is seen in "When We Were Twenty-one." H. V. Edwards celebrated dramatic success.

Associated with Mr. Elliott in the Liberty offering are a company of Famous Players, including Marie Empress, Charles Waldron, Arthur Hoods, Charles Coleman, George Backus, Helen Luttrell, Winifred Allen and Mrs. Gordon. The leading roles are entrusted to Miss Empress and Messrs Elliott and Waldron, and each is admirably cast.

"The Imp" (Mr. Elliott) is a wealthy and wayward youth who by turns shocks and delights his guardian—mostly shocks; who insists on falling in love with a notorious dancer on the hunt for buried treasure, but finally comes "back to earth" and plays the game according to the desires of his best and truest friends.

As told in story form in the Star-Bulletin last Saturday, the "Exploits of Elaine" thrills and excites and adds not a little to the value of one of the best of the Paramount features thus far offered at the Liberty.

ANCIENT BATTLES ON SEA AND LAND

Following "Jack Chanty," featuring Max Figman and Lolita Robertson, the great five-part spectacle of "Damon and Pythias" will be the special attraction at the Poppy theater. This magnificent story will open tomorrow under the patronage of the local lodges of the Knights of Pythias and run until Friday, inclusive, with matinees daily. The members of the order are selling tickets for all productions, which are exchangeable at the box office of the Poppy for reserve seat coupons.

Four hundred years before the dawn of the Christian era, the drama of "Damon and Pythias" was enacted and has lived and grown. Spectacular, stirring, gripping are its scenes; with its colossal groupings, classic dances, games, the thrill of the chariot race, battles upon sea and land, cities built and destroyed, and through all this, with dramatic fire and touch of sentiment runs the story of human friendship.

GEORGE ADE PLAY ON EMPIRE'S BILL

A new Costello play will be presented at the Empire theater today, called "By the Governor's Orders." It deals with military and official life. Helen Costello, an emotional actress who lately has won distinction on the legitimate stage, will make her debut in Honolulu in this stirring two-part dramatization of a story by Joseph Le Barron. The production is elaborately staged. It abounds in clever situations. Maurice Costello and an all-star company have prominent roles. George Ade, perhaps the best-known humorist today, was never in merrier vein than when he wrote the laughable skit which merits its place as a headline attraction on the Empire bill today. In this happy vehicle, Ade launches clever satire at some of the follies of the day.

Moving to do with the satiric movement, a comedy-drama, "The Suffragette of Suffering" will be produced by a company in which Alfred De Galland is starred.
